

Young cancer victims provided with hair pieces

The nonprofit Angel Hair Foundation, formed by Eugene teenager Staci Wright after she lost her hair during cancer treatments, has provided 40 Oregon children with the $1,500 cranial hair prostheses, allowing them to carry on normal activities without being self-conscious about their hair loss.

The Bello, Gervais, Hair Virtuoso, Mia Bella, Mirage and Reflections studios, as well as Kelly Markley at Salon Fleur De Lis, participated in the first Styles for Smiles fundraising campaign, along with Shawn Rahimian's Johnny Ocean's Grille and Oakway Wine & Bistro eateries.

For more information about the foundation, go online to www.angelhair-foundation.org.